Opportunities for Engagement Student Training Program: Level 2, Commitment

The Zen Center’s three-level Student Training Program is designed to help you deepen your practice and develop your understanding of Zen training and its application to the challenges of our personal lives, our community, and the complex issues of our times.

The program will run for two months in the spring and fall each year. Each level has a different set of requirements, duration, and applications to meet you where you are in your practice. The three levels are: “Exploration,” “Commitment,” and “Resolve.” The levels all end at the same time; the start date is staggered.

Level Two, Commitment, is a six-week program for those who are students of Shinge Roshi. If you have not already done so, you will need to meet with her in dokusan and request to become her student. The emphasis at this level is on establishing or strengthening your daily practice, deepening your understanding of the forms and terminology, increasing your commitment to the Zen Center, and working with a mentor.
